

SOLICIT MONEY FROM TRUSTS

Republicans Ignoring Federal Statute Concerning Campaign Contributions.

LETTER OF UPHAM GIVEN RESORT TO CLEVER SCHEME TO EVADE THE LAW.

(Special to The Herald.) Chicago, Ill., Aug. 29.—The fact was developed today that the Republican national committee is ignoring the federal statute making it unlawful to solicit money for political purposes from corporations. A letter addressed to the Chicago corporation recently appealing for funds was issued Aug. 21 from Republican national headquarters on stationery of the Republican national committee. This letter was signed by Fred W. Upham, assistant treasurer of the Republican committee. At the top of this stationery was the name of Frank H. Hitchcock, the Republican national chairman, and the names of all the officers of the committee, of which he is the directing head. For fear the appeal for corporation aid might be overlooked Mr. Upham enclosed in his letter a self-addressed envelope in large print, which directed that the return of the sinews of war be made to him at the headquarters of the Republican national committee, 234 Michigan avenue, Harvester building, Chicago, Ill.

Upham's Appeal. While addressing this appeal for financial aid to corporations, Treasurer Upham was careful to say, "You are requested to bring this matter to the attention of your business associates and ask each to send a check." In other words, Mr. Upham's campaign managers are doing by indirection that which if done directly, would be a violation of the federal laws of the land. Here is Mr. Upham's fat-frying letter:

Chicago, Ill., Gentlemen: Both the New York and Chicago headquarters of the Republican national committee have been opened and the work of the campaign is well advanced. The election of Mr. Taft and Mr. Sherman is essential to the welfare of this country, and perfect organization is necessary to elect them. To secure a perfect organization the national committee must be liberally supplied with funds. Congress recently enacted a statute making it unlawful to solicit money for political purposes from corporations. All the funds, therefore, for the campaign must be supplied by individuals. You are requested to bring this matter to the attention of your business associates and ask each to send a check.

Please be as liberal as possible, as it will take a large amount of money to pay the expense of organization, the postage, printing, speakers' bureau and various details that are absolutely necessary to success.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) FRED W. UPHAM,
Assistant Treasurer.

Relying on Corporations.

This is a clever scheme for evading the federal statute in collecting campaign funds, and it shows that Mr. Taft's managers are relying on corporation aid for the conduct of their campaign. Following this plan of hat passing, it is reasonable to suppose that a letter of like kind has been, or will be, sent to the Standard Oil company with the expectation of receiving a contribution from John D. Rockefeller and his multi-millionaire associates, who share in the royalties of the greatest of all corporations.

Early in the campaign leading Republicans said it was all right for corporations to make campaign contributions. It was their purpose, judging from the utterances of the party leaders, to start out for funds in the regular way. One of the leading Republicans who defended this method of fat-frying was none other than George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee. Another Republican authority said it was all right for corporations to contribute in a campaign, and that they had as much right to do so as do farmers, whose business interests might be affected in a local campaign.

REDEMPTION OF JACKSON HOLE

B. H. Roberts Sees Opportunities for Settlers in Notorious Valley.

Brigham H. Roberts returned yesterday after a three weeks' outing in the Yellowstone park and elsewhere, the outing being both for pleasure and business.

"We had a delightful time," said Mr. Roberts. "We went in a party that occupied eight conveyances. We crossed the Teton range and dropped down into the Jackson valley, commonly called Jackson's hole. In the Jackson valley George Albert Smith and I assisted at the dedication of a new church house on Sunday, Aug. 16. The building is a modest brick and unpretentious, but we think it marks a long step forward in the redemption of that country, a country which has so long had as evil a name as any frontier region ever had.

"In the Jackson valley are many opportunities for settlers. There are chances for stock raising and there is a large area of tillable land, the soil of which is adapted to the hardier grains. Our people in the community are well pleased with their lot and are confident, as time goes on and the country is cleared of its riff-raff, that it will afford homes for many hundreds of families."

After leaving the Jackson valley the party visited a number of lakes, including Jackson lake, the Lewis lake, the latter named for the famous explorer, Meriwether Lewis, who, in 1804-1805, in company with Captain Clark, blazed the trail which the outing party followed. "We made the round of the Yellowstone park," said Mr. Roberts, "but we were fortunate enough to escape the bandit. Probably this was because we were a day behind the outfit that were held up, and it is quite likely, also, that our impoverished appearance had something to do with deterring the road agent."
